

Supplementary materials 2 : MRI in T2 weighted STIR sequence. Axial view of L3-L4 (upper image) and L4 (middle image); and coronal view (lower image). SAFJ (dotted arrow, upper image) presumed to be due to Mycobacterium tuberculosis with a psoas abscess (full arrow, middle and lower images) communicating with left L3-L4 inter-apophyseal joint via a fistula (red arrow, upper image).

